

Research Fellow in Green Europe Programme

EUROPEUM Institute for European Policy is an independent, non-profit and non-partisan think-tank based in the Czech Republic and Brussels. EUROPEUM is focused mainly on European issues, of which the green transformation and decarbonisation is one of our main focal points. The organisation conducts original research, organises events for the public and experts, carries out advocacy activities and implements international projects.

We are currently looking for a researcher for our Green Europe programme, to join our growing climate team. The work stream focuses on climate policies of the EU and the Czech Republic and decarbonisation of the European economy. We strive to provide evidence-based research and recommendations to policy-makers and help shape the EU's path towards climate neutrality. Our main sectoral focus is on the energy, transport and raw materials sectors.

Job description:

- Research on decarbonisation of Czech and European economy (ideally with a special focus on the automotive industry and transport sector)
- Recommendations for Czech and European policy-makers based on own research and expertise
- Advocacy for the programme's priorities towards European and Czech decision-makers and stakeholders
- Maintaining and expanding network of private and public sector contacts
- Cooperation with partner organisations from Czechia and the EU
- Public engagement through media and public discussions
- Development of own research projects in line with the overall goal of Green Europe programme

What we expect:

- Completed master's programme with a focus on European Studies, Environmental Studies, Economics or another relevant field
- Fluency in Czech and English (both written and spoken)
- Good analytical skills and experience with basic/applied science methods
- Keen interest in climate protection and green transformation
- General understanding of the EU institutions and decision-making processes
- Prior experience in research projects and/or fundraising is an asset
- Motivation and ability to work in a dynamic international team

What we offer:

- Work in a leading Czech think-tank respected throughout Europe
- Meaningful job influencing Czech and European policy-making
- Professional development and career growth in a diverse international team of experienced researchers
- Possibility to network with Czech and international experts and decision-makers and to build own expertise
- Offices in the heart of Prague, participation in activities through Europe
- Flexible working time, possibility to partially work from home based on your needs
- Remuneration of 40-50 000 Kč/month netto, depending on experience

If interested, please send your CV, short motivation letter and example/s of your written work (preferably in English) to europa@europeum.org until 11th January. Please write "Green Europe – Research Fellow" as the subject of your email. Interviews will be taking place on rolling basis.
