

Researcher Economist

EUROPEUM Institute for European Policy, the leading think-tank on European policy within the Czech Republic with offices in Prague and Brussels, is looking to hire an economic researcher. EUROPEUM is an independent, non-profit and non-partisan think-tank focusing on European integration and the EU's policy agenda, encompassing topics such as the green transformation, EU enlargement, EU foreign policy, defence and security, EU institutions, and more.

At this critical moment where the EU seeks to accelerate the Green and Digital transformations amidst a critical economic juncture, EUROPEUM is currently looking to hire an economic researcher with expertise and interest in environmental and digital economics.

As a researcher, you will be tasked with conducting competitive research while engaging in the national and European debate through concise policy analysis. You are expected to develop and maintain leading expertise within your specific policy areas, capable of autonomously advancing your field through project development and research while integrating into our resident team of researchers and experts.

What we expect:

- You are at least a master graduate preferably in Economics or similar field. You can be enrolled as a PhD. candidate.
- Previous research experience.
- A holistic interest in the nexus of European policy developments, particularly in the realms of green transformation and digitalization.
- A solid background and foundation in statistics and economics.
- You are driven, motivated and visionary, capable of working both autonomously as well as in a team.
- Fluency in both English and Czech or Slovak.

What we offer:

- An excellent opportunity for professional and personal growth in a stimulating environment.
- A flexible working environment tailored to your needs, be it in terms of working hours, holidays or home office or health.
- Competitive remuneration with additional financial rewards through participation in and development of projects.
- An intellectually stimulating and fully internationalized research organization supporting you in your endeavours through our decades of experience.

If you are interested in this offer, please send your CV, Cover Letter and preferably some examples of your work (articles etc.) to europeum@europeum.org until 14 February.
